New flexible AMST curriculum starts Fall 2022!

(Graphic explains AMST curriculum, see americanstudies.unc.edu for info on AMST—American Indian and Indigenous Studies)

Before Fall 2022

- 1 major, 5 concentrations
- Different Core Courses depending on your concentration
- 7 electives that vary by concentration
- 5 minors, different requirements

Fall 2022 and After

- ONE major, TWO concentrations: AMST OR AMST - American Indian and Indigenous Studies Concentration (AIIS)
- Two Core Courses: AMST 101 and ONE of 6 courses in AMST's areas of strength
- 7 electives that you choose according to your interest
- ONE AMST minor, same requirements: AMST 101, ONE of 6 courses in AMST's areas of strength, and 3 electives

FOR MORE INFO

See https://americanstudies.unc.edu/undergraduate

The Department of American Studies affirms our commitment to American Indian and Indigenous Studies (AIIS) and recognizes the field's importance to our students and to our intellectual community. Considering this, the new curriculum retains the AIIS Concentration in the Major and the AIIS Minor. The requirements for the AIIS Concentration and Minor are unchanged and can be found in the current course catalog.